Not one of my favorites...

By CLo

I am huge Gerri Hill fan and have read most of her books. This one though, falls a little short in my opinion. The story revolves around two characters, Jo and Kelly, both in their mid-30s and both professors at a college. Jo has been cheated on and left by her long time lover and refuses to let anyone get close to her. Kelly is an athlete, writer, who has a reputation of being a player. Easy markings for typical yet enjoyable story.

The reason I didn't love this was that Jo got on my nerves with her insecurity and her possessiveness. And Kelly, well she just kept taking the beatings. I get it, love and wanting and all that but really...it was little more than I think as a reader I could take. And then there was the lack of display of the said reputation of Kelly. I would have liked to see more happen as in Jo going out on a date, something more with Deb perhaps. I don't really know, I just know something was missing to really tie the story of the two characters together.

I didn't hate the book...but it's not one of my favorites and probably not one that I read again in the future any time.

Love wins!

This is my first time reading a book by this author. I enjoyed it immensely. One of the characters, Jo, had insecurity and trust issues. After a previous bad relationship that is understandable. She found someone who was patient enough to hang in there with her and help her overcome those issues. Sometimes, that happens in real life. That would be wonderful if everyone was blessed like that. A very good read! I can't wait to read other works by this author.
