FROM NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR...

Two years ago, Vanessa Abbott's husband Jim, an up-and-coming artist, drowned himself in the Missouri River. His body still hasn't been recovered. Now Vanessa has arranged for one last showing of his brilliant, disturbing artwork. Critics are raving, pieces are selling. She even meets an interesting man. Then the gallery owner is found dead with a splash of red paint across his body. Vanessa recognizes it as Jim's signature mark. And in her home, Jim's picture somehow finds its way onto the dresser, and his jacket appears on a kitchen chair. Is she going crazy? Or has her husband come back...for her?

Pretty good romance/mystery.

By Jenny_C

Vanessa is a real estate agent and single mom. Her artist husband committed suicide 2 years ago. She is finally ready to display and sell his left behind art. At the showing she meets Christian Connor and feels sparks. Later that night, the murders begin. Vanessa begins to have creepy things happen & the people connected to Jim (her husband) in the art world are being murdered. Throw in her in-laws and all their drama and pressure on her 10-year-old son to be the next "Abbott hope" (he is an artist as well), the be-at-atch/bipolar receptionist at her office and an awesome detective working the case. Is Jim really alive & after revenge or is someone else doing the dirty deeds on his behalf?

I enjoyed the romance. Christian has issues to work through and Vanessa realizes how alone she has been since dealing with a mentally ill husband. The story seemed to drag a bit and then have a rapid conclusion but was overall a nice read for fans of Carla's work like myself.

A great read!

By BFields

I have just recently discovered Carla Cassidy, and I'm glad I did. This is the second book I've read by this author and I have to admit that I enjoyed the plot, the characters and the story line. A mystery with just enough romance to keep it interesting. I plan on starting another book by her today, can't wait!

Always a good read

By Caz

I discovered this Author about 5 months ago and since then have been buying up her books. I love her easy style of writing, the plots are great, and never think you know who did it. and each book is stand alone, which I enjoy. Write more Carla.
